The young girl and her mother, who owned the vehicle, contested the liability claiming she did not run a red light. Witness testimony rebutted this contention. Evidence showed that defendant was violating restrictions on her graduated driver's license whereby she could not drive with more than one passenger who is less than 21 years of age, although there were exceptions to this rule. Driving with an illegal number of underage passengers in her car (2), they were driving back from a shoe store. Three other minors were with her in the vehicle at the time of the accident; however, she was not violating the license restriction because she was dropping off one of the minor girls to a school event. Plaintiff claimed injuries primarily to her lower back, neck and right shoulder from the March 5, 2011 accident. At the time of trial, plaintiff's shoulder had improved by 95%. The surgeon, however, testified that she had a pre-existing shoulder tear that was worsened in the accident. Plaintiff also underwent a back surgery which helped her symptoms, somewhat. Defendant argued that all injuries were pre-existing and degenerative and that the plaintiff did not sustain a threshold injury. Treating doctors testified that her prior medical conditions had stabilized until the accident. Treating doctors testified that the plaintiff was more susceptible to injury than a normal person; thus, could be hurt in this kind of minor accident.
04/25/2014	$ 2,657,952	Attendant Care Benefits	Bonkowski v Allstate Insurance Co. (Auto) In a 2001 automobile/pedestrian accident, plaintiff suffered a diffuse brain injury and a spinal cord injury which rendered him a high-level quadriplegic. Attendant care benefits had been litigated three times previously with multiple different jury awards and multiple appeals to the Michigan Court of Appeals and the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. This case represented the fourth lawsuit between the parties concerning attendant care benefits. The Judge said the case had the potential of being re-litigated for the rest of the plaintiff's life. Accordingly, the parties agreed to an 8-year contract for future attendant care benefits at a rate that would be determined by an arbitration panel, with the specific understanding that all other no-fault benefits are preserved. Additionally, defendant Allstate would have to bring up prior payments for attendant care pending in this litigation to the rate established by the arbitrators. The arbitration panel determined an hourly rate of $32/hour for 24 hrs/day.

The second lawsuit had resolved with a contract to pay future family-provided attendant care benefits, but the insurance adjuster decided to stop payments prematurely, necessitating this third lawsuit. Plaintiff had stopped to allow vehicle in front of him to turn left; however, defendant looked away from traffic in front of him and struck plaintiff. Plaintiff sustained a head injury after striking his head upon impact. Defendant was uninsured, so plaintiff relied upon his employer's uninsured policy with defendant Motorist Mutual Insurance and his own uninsured automobile insurance with defendant Home-Owners Insurance Co. Four days after the accident, however, plaintiff was hospitalized, exhibiting signs of erratic behavior and demonstrating hallucinations. He was bleeding profusely in his abdomen and required an emergent laparotomy. His medical stability declined, he went into respiratory failure and became ventilator dependent. His body began to shut down and he required several surgeries and remained hospitalized for almost four months, then went to an extended care facility before returning home.

He returned to work doing light duty for approximately one year before being discharged by his employer. Plaintiff alleged he could not return to work as a semi-truck driver, but defendants' experts argued he could return to other forms of employment. They also argued that his current pain and limitations were caused by his diabetes, as suggested by one of plaintiff's own treating physicians.

The two young men were on an unsupervised camping trip and had rented canoes without any supervision from either the church group, defendant Knox Presbyterian Church, or the canoe rental facility. The two men began struggling with the current and the undertow from the dam on the river, and the canoe tipped. Plaintiff's decedent attempted to rescue both boys and was able to save one before drowning along with the other canoeist. Plaintiff's estate filed a wrongful death complaint against the estate of the deceased individual (after a nonparty at fault was filed, naming the estate), the canoe rental facility and the church group, along with the national church group. Defendants argued the rescue doctrine, the livery statute and no duty/breach of duty. Settlement was obtained following facilitation and settlement negotiations between the parties.

After realizing she had struck someone, she panicked and attempted to drive forward again, but the vehicle became lodged on top of plaintiff. Plaintiff was pinned beneath the vehicle for approximately 30 minutes before the fire and rescue personnel were able to lift the car and extricate him. As a result, plaintiff suffered traumatic brain injury and multiple fractures to the skull, jaw, nose, sinuses, eye orbits, ribs, left leg, lung and chest. The truck driver was distracted, reading paperwork while driving 50 mph, tried to swerve to the right and ended up colliding from the rear, propelling Dorado's car approx. 100 feet into a utility pole. Plaintiff suffered 3 spinal fusion back surgeries, a hip fusion, shoulder surgery and suffered significant traumatic brain injury (RBI). 07/17/2014	$ 1,500,000	Thomas v Sloan Petroleum Transportation (Auto Fatality) Axle Struck Car Roof	Defendant Sloan Petroleum's tank was driving Southfield Freeway when a dual assembly broke off the axle, traveled down the freeway and bounced over the median, fatally striking the car roof of plaintiff's decedent. It was discovered that the four axles of the defendant's tanker had been improperly welded by being butt welded at the spindles. This had significantly reduced the integrity of the axle. Plaintiff argued that this was a violation of the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations because the motor carrier has a duty to insure the safety of the trailer by, among other things, inspecting all the parts, axles included.

Defendant was carrying an oversized load with a piece of farm equipment on the back of the flatbed truck. Plaintiff had the right of way and was properly proceeding under a green light. Plaintiff smashed both of her knees into the dashboard of her car, fractured her wrist and sustained a closed head injury. Up until the end of 2014, she had undergone 8 separate surgeries, including replacements of both knees. She is expected to need additional procedures and ongoing treatment and rehabilitation. At the time of the accident, she was gainfully employed by a government agency and routinely received commendations from superiors. Head-On Collision		On August 16, 2012, defendant was driving too fast for the weather conditions in southern Kent County at the time, lost control of his vehicle and crossed the center line. He then crashed in a head-on collision with another car. He died due to extensive blunt force injuries. The car of the defendant had illegal rear tires, which locked when the defendant jammed on his brakes and caused the hydroplaning that led to the accident. The defendant asserted the sudden emergency doctrine and argued the loss of control and subsequent collision was due to his being confronted by a sudden emergency and not due to his own misconduct.

Rear-Ended		While stopped at a red traffic signal, plaintiff and his driver wife were rear-ended by defendant. After the impact, defendant backed up and drove around the plaintiff's vehicle, then sped away at a high rate of speed. Plaintiff's wife followed the at-fault driver. Plaintiff called 911 and the police were dispatched to pursue the fleeing driver. Plaintiff was diagnosed with a cervical strain from a flexion-extension injury to his head and neck and currently treats with medication, injections and rhizotomies. Prior to this collision, plaintiff was the owner and operator of a farm semi-trucking business, performing all of the heavy mechanical work on the trucks and was actively involved in the day-to-day running of the business. After the crash, however, plaintiff was unable to continue working in his business. The at-fault driver's insurance company, State Farm, offered $60,000 prior to trial. Plaintiff's carrier, Auto-Owners, refused to offer any amount in settlement.

Attendant Care Benefits		Plaintiff's ward was severely injured with traumatic brain injury in a 2004 automobile accident. Defendant had been paying attendant care benefits at a rate that had been satisfactory to plaintiff, but cut off benefits claiming that plaintiff had not supplied reasonable proof of loss. In this third lawsuit, plaintiff claimed that defendant engaged in fraud and a conspiracy along with consulting physician and registered nurse to violate the no-fault act. Defendant was unable to escape its prior nebulous discovery answer relating its program to reduce family-provided attendant care. The settlement was for attendant care benefits only and represents a contract between the parties covering attendant care benefits for the next 5½ years. The amount of the settlement was considerably higher than what the insurance company had paid prior to the cutoff of attendant care benefits.

The impact totaled plaintiff's car as well as the non-party car. Plaintiff claimed a cervical disc herniation as a result of the accident and underwent fusion surgery. 	Defamation of Parents	In 2007, parents were arrested and accused of sexually abusing their autistic, nonverbal daughter, then 14. An aide at her school made this claim based on their daughter communicating through the controversial "facilitated communication" method. Upon physical examination, no evidence supported the claim. Also, the daughter did not answer any of the prosecutors' questions correctly while using the facilitative communication process. In addition, during their 13-year-old son's interview, West Bloomfield police falsely told the son that they had proof his father had assaulted his daughter. The father spent 80 days in jail before prosecutors dropped the charges in March 2008. The two children were returned to the parents after having been placed in foster care since the arrests. Plaintiffs argued that the prosecutor had defamed them even after he left office and a year after the case was dropped. Plaintiffs also contended that 1) the prosecutor's chief assistant had seized their son in violation of his Fourth Amendment rights on several occasions, and 2) the assistant had not told their son that the police had lied to him about his father's abuse toward his daughter. An Ann Arbor federal jury awarded each family member $250,000 as well as $2,000,000 to the son.
11/18/2014	$ 1,121,400	Denys v Auto Club Insurance Association (Auto / No-Fault PIP Attendant Care Claim)
	Attendant Care Benefits	In November 2008, an independent 87-year-old was in an auto accident leaving her lower extremity weak and also with deep vein thrombosis. Her no-fault carrier paid attendant care benefits until October 2012, when plaintiff claimed the insurer wrongfully suspended payment. Two independent medical examinations (IME) agreed that care benefits were still needed, relating to the accident. Defendant sent plaintiff to a new and different medical examiner. As a result, the carrier discontinued paying three hours of attendant care benefits at $12.50 per hour in February 2013. After filing suit and deposing the adjuster responsible for terminating benefits, defendant agreed to facilitation and paid $26,760 for the October 2012-February 2013 cutoff. During litigation, defendant ordered a 4 th IME. The IME mirrored the original two examinations. Defendant adjuster admitted knowing that plaintiff was receiving 24-hour care and that the adjuster was only paying for three hours of attendant care per day.

	Fatal Rear-End Collision	Plaintiff and his fiancée experienced mechanical problems on their way home from downtown Detroit. Some of the exterior lights were affected, so they put on their hazard lights and continued at a reduced speed. Defendant Art Van's tractor trailer rig did not switch lanes to avoid the imminent accident, although the plaintiff's vehicle was in plain sight. A fatal rear-end collision decimated plaintiff's car. An hour after the crash, the defendant Art Van driver still claimed he had no recollection of hitting the car, which was still burning, stuck underneath the tractor trailer rig. Plaintiff's counsel believed the truck driver was asleep at the wheel. Injuries included wrongful death, lost future income, mental anguish and emotional distress.

Plaintiff's disabled dump truck was at the back of the tractor-trailer in a low-boy trailer. While traveling northbound on I-75 near M-81 defendant's left front "steer" tire blew out. Defendant lost control of the vehicle and it careened sharply to the left and struck the median wall, breaking out two sections of the wall. The fuel tank on the left side of the truck behind the cab caught fire. As the vehicle continued to roll along the highway median over the course of about 20 seconds, defendant demanded that passenger jump out of the moving vehicle; however, plaintiff refused as there was oncoming traffic. Defendant released his own seatbelt, then released the plaintiff's seatbelt, reached over the plaintiff and pushed the passenger door open, and then used his feet to force the plaintiff from the moving vehicle onto the highway while traveling 30 mph. Expert testimony confirmed that it took the defendant more time to execute the maneuver to remove the plaintiff than it would have taken to stop the truck if the air brake "emergency tabs" had been pulled, in which case it would have taken 5 seconds for all 22 tires to lock up and brake; then a controlled exit could have been made. It is a common-law theory that you do not push a passenger out of a moving vehicle. Plaintiff incurred a closed-head injury and multiple fractures with permanent nerve injury. Defendant contended that the plaintiff was comparatively negligent. It was also discovered that his mandatory annual inspection and daily inspection of the vehicle were both falsified. The tire that blew was over three years old and was "over miles." The jury determined that both the driver and the company were negligent. Plaintiff became pinned against the disabled motorist's vehicle, suffering a fractured leg and a concussion that was ultimately diagnosed as a mild traumatic brain injury. Treating physicians asserted that plaintiff's working capacity was permanently diminished due not only to his lack of mobility, but also because of his changed personality which was attributable to post-traumatic stress disorder. Defendant denied liability, but pleaded no contest to a traffic ticket for speeding. Defendant's examining physicians contended that 1) plaintiff's psychiatric disability was attributable to his pre-existing mental state, and 2) plaintiff could perform gainful employment, although not in the same industry (sales) as previously.

He swerved to avoid the sign but could not avoid the second, unexpected overturned sign in the adjoining lane which had fallen on its face, leaving the metal legs thrusting forward in a dangerous position. The dark, rusted metal support leg of the second sign came through plaintiff's windshield, impaling him in the chest, missing his heart by inches, but causing damage to his chest cavity including an injury to his lung and chest muscle along with two shattered ribs. Paramedics arrived and noted a 2-3" open chest wound above the left nipple and found plaintiff having difficulty with breathing and placed him on oxygen. He was treated at the hospital. She suffered second- and third-degree burns over 21% of her body, including her hands, arms, chest, neck and face. Defendant had been made aware, prior to this incident, that the burning flame may be invisible and that the fuel's vapors could travel quickly to ignition sources. This, coupled with the design of the firepot which plaintiffs alleged made the flame difficult or impossible to see, created an unreasonable danger to consumers.
02/22/2013	$ 7,000,000	Confidential (Auto) About 4:30 a.m., 28-year-old plaintiff sustained burn injuries to more than 85% of his body after his tractor trailer sideswiped parked truck off the I-94 expressway, adjacent to defendant's apartment complex. Negligence was argued as the defendant did not use reflectors, triangles, flares or flashing lights to indicate his parked truck in a non-illuminated area. Upon impact, the gas tanks on both vehicles ruptured, causing an explosion. Also, flammable materials being transported by the plaintiff burst into flames and engulfed the truck cab before he had an opportunity to escape. Burn injuries required five months' hospitalization, undergoing over 20 surgical procedures, tracheostomy, and operations to his left hand.
03/06/2013	$ 3,000,000	Confidential (Premises/Operations) A 30-year-old mother of two young children sustained burns up to 40% of her body's surface and underwent skin graft surgery after a natural gas explosion occurred at her home four years ago. Defendants claimed that the plaintiff was able to resume her household activities and, because she planned to be a stay-at-home mom, there was no loss of earnings. Defendants also claimed that the leak that caused the gas explosion was inside the home and they were entitled to summary disposition. The motion was denied. Plaintiff moved for default because Plaintiff was subsequently placed into a brain injury facility where he remains as an in-patient, undergoing occupational and speech therapy and other therapies. Plaintiff was a seasonal farm worker who has been permanently disabled as a consequence of the crash. Investigating police officers reflected that defendant had a clear and unobstructed view of the roadway and that the roadway, other traffic and weather conditions did not contribute to the crash. The officers also said plaintiff did nothing to contribute to his injury. Defendant argued that plaintiff's lack of U.S. citizenship, spotty work history, and lack of immediate family members should result in a minimal financial recovery. Third-party tort liability case.

03/20/2013	$ 3,717,948	Cress, et al. v VHS University Laboratories Inc., et al. (Auto) In Royal Oak, 54-year-old pastor's vehicle was struck by defendant driver who was operating a vehicle owned by her employer during the scope of her employment. Although the impact was relatively minor, because of his previous history of multiple concussions, plaintiff was extremely vulnerable. He was diagnosed with a traumatic brain injury, a double crush injury to his cervical and thoracic spine, vision problems, acute depression and other injuries. Church elders asked plaintiff to step down as head pastor, he ultimately lost his job and is disabled. The pastor's wife kept a daily journal of his day-to-day activity changes following the wreck. That journal was the key evidence. Defendants admitted liability but disputed causation and damages. The jury determined that the accident was a proximate cause of plaintiff's injuries and awarded past and future economic damages, past and future noneconomic damages, and co-plaintiff was awarded past and future noneconomic damages.

Maintenance employees for the complex testified that they had failed to salt the common porch area, despite acknowledgement of their responsibility to do so. He suffered traumatic brain injury, abdominal and intestinal tract injuries, and spinal injuries, leaving him disabled. He underwent 12 surgeries. Defendant driver had been under the influence of marijuana at the time and was trying to cross a 3-lane road from a turnaround lane when he pulled out in front of the police officer's car which was approaching. When defendant rolled through the stop sign, the officer struck defendant's car in the back end. Because the officer felt the call was not a "priority" call she had not used her overhead lights when speeding to the scene. 04/19/2013	$ 1,132,119	Meka v Zurich American Insurance Co., et al. (Auto) In June 2008 a motor vehicle struck plaintiff motorcyclist who suffered a traumatic brain injury. Plaintiff filed a claim with defendant Zurich, the insurer of VW Credit, which was the titled owner of the car. Zurich denied that it insured the car, and Meka filed suit against VW Credit for personal injury protection benefits because VW Credit had failed to insure the car. VW Credit denied liability, claiming to have sold the car the day before the accident. Ultimately, the court determined that VW Credit owned the car and that Zurich was the highest priority and proper party for paying no-fault benefits. However, Zurich denied the claim based on independent medical examinations. The matter was resolved one week before trial which included work loss, medical mileage, replacement services, medical bills, attendant care and costs. It was also agreed that Zurich would pay interest and attorney fees as ordered by the court.
05/03/2013	$ 2,250,000	Farrell, et al. v Millering, et al (Auto) 52-year-old plaintiff, arriving home on his motorcycle, stopped near the end of his driveway because a visitor's car blocked his entry. Seeing him, the visitor backed down the driveway into the motorcyclist's lane of traffic, stopping in front of him. She rolled down her window to talk to the motorcyclist and, because of his hearing loss, he turned off his motorcycle to hear better, and turned off the motorcycle lights. At the same time, seeing an approaching vehicle from the 2-lane rural roadway, the visitor flashed her headlights at the vehicle then backed up into the driveway, leaving the cyclist in the roadway. The cyclist was hit from behind and suffered an ankle fracture and mild brain injury, returning to work one year later. The biggest issues were deciding fault, comparing interrogatories and questionings regarding impaired vision and speed at time of impact, with the accident reconstructionist's findings. The jury's verdict allocated fault at 95% for defendant and 5%, plaintiff. $1.5M in noneconomic damages were awarded to plaintiff and $750,000 in noneconomic damages to co-plaintiff for loss of society and companionship.
05/07/2013	$ 1,050,000	Midland County Circuit Court; confidential (Premises) The night before high school graduation, teens attended a party at defendant's home where alcohol was served and consumed and marijuana was smoked. 05/09/2013	$ 9,500,000	Conerly, et al. v Scripps Park Assocites LLC, et al.; Townsend v Scripps Park Associates LLC, et al. (Premises/Operations) In 2009 in a residential area on Detroit's west side, a 7-year-old boy fell into a construction site excavation pit filled with over 12 feet of murky water. The 58-year-old neighbor in his home across the street jumped in, held the boy's head above water until police officer could pull the boy from the water, while neighbor's 12-year-old daughter looked on. The neighbor died. Plaintiffs argued that both the defendant developer and construction manager, as well as the excavating company, left the unfinished basement excavation open and inadequately secured with a plastic orange snow fence from October 2008 until the rescuer's death. Despite warnings, defendants believed the appropriate safety measures had been met and that they had no responsibility to maintain an erect barrier around this site, and asserted that any orange plastic fence was a warning whether erect or lying on the ground. The jury determined that the developer was 20% at fault; the construction manager, 80%. No causation was found for the excavating company. Although the defense argued that the parents of the 7-year-old were at fault for their son's misbehavior, it was countered that the parents did not owe a duty to the deceased neighbor's family, and the attractive nuisance doctrine applied.

05/09/2013	$ 2,250,000	Angott v Ingles, et al. (Auto) In 2008, 22-year-old rear-ended a large construction barrel truck when it pulled directly out in front of her vehicle from the shoulder. She crashed in a guardrail and was knocked unconscious by the impact. She underwent three surgeries to her right ankle and was diagnosed with a traumatic brain injury and complex regional pain syndrome. Though defendants argued she was comparatively negligent and had recovered from injuries, extensive written discovery and depositions established that defendant's employer was lacking in safety procedures, the defendants were negligent, and the construction truck should not have been on the road at the time of the accident because of their construction contract.
05/13/2013	$ 4,550,000	Confidential (Auto) Traffic conditions on I-94 brought plaintiff's vehicle to a complete stop. The 31-year-old internationally-renowned musician was airlifted to U of M Hospital where she was an inpatient for two months. She sustained a severe traumatic brain injury, fractures to the base of the skull, severage of the cranial nerves, as well as some hearing loss. Though recovered, she will require therapy for a number of years.
05/15/2013	$ 5,147,500	Svaluto, et al. v City of Westland, et al. (Pollution/Environmental) In a class action lawsuit, compensatory damages were sought for property damage and cleanup expenses as a result of the flooding of their properties by raw, untreated sewage. In June 2010 and May 2011 more than 700 Westland residents and businesses incurred extensive basement damage caused from systemic flooding. Plaintiffs asserted that chronic lack of maintenance caused the flooding as rainwater entered the city's sewage pipes instead of the storm drains, due to inflow and infiltration. Defendants contended it was a significant rain event and an Act of God. Each plaintiff will receive a pro rata share of the settlement based on the amount of their claimed damages.
06/25/2013	$ 1,550,400	Argue, et al. v Home-Owners Insurance Co. (Premises) Arriving home in the evening, plaintiffs discovered their house full of smoke, called 911, and firefighters arrived within 5-10 minutes to find the fire only confined to the family room area. But because of snowy conditions and the significant driveway slope, the fire engines were not able to get close enough to fight the fire. By the time water did become available the house was engulfed in flames and could not be saved. Due to the insurance company's failure to respond favorably nine months following the fire, plaintiffs filed a breach of contract suit, due to the fact that the insurance contract required suits to be brought within a years' time. Defendant's investigations included fraud, misrepresentation and arson.
07/23/2013	$ 1,000,000	Jane Doe v Kierst, et al. (Auto) A Wayne State University senior was struck by defendant's vehicle while properly crossing on a green light in a marked crosswalk. Defendant admitted to having bad peripheral vision and eventually admitted negligence to operation of a motor vehicle; however, defendants did not admit proximate cause of the injuries or that plaintiff suffered injuries to meet the serious impairment threshold. Plaintiff's doctor performed a microdiscectomy on her injured disc and several nerve blocks. Plaintiff's doctors have disabled her from employment both for the physical injuries to her spine and for the traumatic brain injury. Plaintiff did complete her final semester despite the injuries.
07/30/2013	$ 925,000	Confidential (Auto) Two miles from home, plaintiff female senior citizen was approaching an intersection on a busy road while defendant female driver approaching the intersection realized she missed her turn and, in an effort to turn around, defendant began to make a left-hand turn, but failed to yield, turning directly in front of plaintiff's vehicle and they collided, head on. Plaintiff was trapped in her vehicle. First responders extricated plaintiff before she could be airlifted to U of M Hospital, Ann Arbor. At U of M her right leg was amputated and she underwent surgery to replace a fractured left hip. She continues to suffer from a foot drop that requires a brace. Defendant admitted liability, leaving only the extent of plaintiff's damages to be determined.

08/21/2013	$ 975,000	Collins, et al. v Causley Trucking Inc., et al. (Auto) At a red light on southbound M-53 in Bruce Township, plaintiff's vehicle was rear-ended by defendant's truck. Plaintiff William Collins incurred brain and spinal injuries; Jessica Collins, knee injuries. Defendants argued that plaintiff's injuries were not significant and that their insurance policy limits were $1M.
09/10/2013	$ 2,500,000	Confidential (Auto) Intersection accident between plaintiff's SUV and defendants' semi-truck resulted in a third-party auto negligence lawsuit. Defendants disputed fault for the accident and argued that all of the 38-year-old plaintiff's injuries were pre-existing. Defense further argued that this low-speed, low-impact accident that resulted in minor vehicle damage could not have caused the injuries which were minor. Plaintiff underwent two spinal surgeries in the years after the accident. Special damages: Excess wage loss at $79,000/year for 20 years, potentially, although employer had dissolved during her period of disability.
09/13/2013	$ 1,143,795	Haynes v Franciuc, et al. (Auto) At the intersection of Walnut Lake and Middlebelt Roads 20-year-old defendant ran a red light when he was distracted while texting on his cellphone, crashing into 51-year-old plaintiff's vehicle. After initially refusing medical treatment at the scene, plaintiff began experiencing head, neck and lower back pain over the next few days. After deliberation, the jury awarded plaintiff $325,000 in past noneconomic damages, $464,000 in future noneconomic damages, and $354,795 in future economic damages.
09/26/2013	$ 1,350,000	Estate of Gary Wilson v MacGregor, et al. (Auto) While driving through an intersection, van failed to stop at stop sign, striking plaintiff's vehicle on the driver's side at about 55 mph. Forced across the intersection and into a field, plaintiff's vehicle came to a rest and caught fire a short time later, his body burned beyond recognition. It was argued that the driver of the van had cruise control on and never slowed down the van prior to impacting the vehicle. The key to settling the amount of this case was submitting a detailed settlement demand that documented facts that would have been used to support a jury demand of damages in excess of $950,000. Leaving behind his wife and two children, ages 1 and 3, remaining funds sought to compensate the decedent's estate were calculated based on the possibility of a jury awarding compensation for decedent's conscious pain and suffering experience after the injury.
09/26/2013	$ 764,900	Jones v Allstate Insurance Co. (Auto / No-Fault, Uninsured Motorist) In 2010, plaintiff was driving on a dirt road in Livingston County. A second vehicle was approaching from the opposite direction, when a third vehicle behind it passed the second vehicle at a high rate of speed, causing a large cloud of dust to form. The dust cloud prevented both drivers from seeing each other, resulting in a head-on collision. Plaintiff was a Michigan resident, but driving her daughter's boyfriend's vehicle which was insured under a Florida policy that provided UM coverage not requiring contact with the uninsured motorist. Plaintiff had a protruding lumbar disc and radiculopathy. A medical expert testified that extensive physical therapy and epidural injections failed to provide long-term relief. Plaintiff has not worked since the accident and claimed 15 years of future wage loss. The Wayne County jury found the third driver 95% at fault and plaintiff, 5%, and awarded damages of $750,000 in economic damages and $14,900 in noneconomic damages.

Webb v Wiitanen, et al. (Auto)

In a third-party auto negligence case, plaintiff suffered serious injuries, including a below-knee amputation, when his vehicle ran into a tractor-trailer that had come to a complete stop in the middle lane of I-94, giving no warning to motorists. Plaintiff argued that truck driver didn't heed multiple audible and visual warnings in the cab and then move off the highway, but instead did nothing and came to a stop in the center lane. Plaintiff did not have enough time to perceive what actually was going on and react timely to avoid the collision. Defendants argued that plaintiff was the cause of the collision and that he had sufficient time and distance to avoid the collision and that the rear-ending driver is "prima facie negligent" under Michigan law. All of the defendant's arguments were defeated and a settlement was achieved after communication with the treating physicians and gaining an excellent grasp of the underlying medical issues and orthopedic injuries and how these injuries have and will affect plaintiff for the rest of his life.

On a snow-covered road in early evening, December 2010, defendant was driving employer's newly purchased F350 pickup truck, which she was driving back to Traverse City. The 4-wheel drive was not engaged as she was coming up a hill, when the back wheels began to slide. Losing control, her vehicle entered the northbound lane. Plaintiff had no time to react, trying to move the vehicle toward the shoulder to avoid defendant's truck, which ran into plaintiff's car, killing her. Plaintiff's son incurred injuries including pelvis fracture, cut between fingers, pulmonary contusions, neck discomfort, abdominal pain, elbow pain, and left lower-extremity pain.

In April of 2008 defendant railroad company's locomotive was "throttling up" in order to maintain speed, which caused hot carbon particles to spew out of the exhaust, landing near the tracks. The particles started a wildfire that spread to local property, including that owned by plaintiff game club. The resulting fire consumed thousands of trees on about 400 acres and destroyed two cabins.

On a snowy afternoon in February 2009, 3 family members were seriously injured when a government vehicle, a snow plow, was driving the wrong way on a snow-covered 2-lane highway. The driver of a minivan tried to avoid the oncoming snow plow, but her vehicle spun around and collided with it. Plaintiff's minor, now 12, was ejected from the rear window, suffering traumatic brain injury; left arm, left shoulder blade, pelvic and sacral fractures; a lacerated spleen; pulmonary injuries; and head lacerations. The key to the settlement was to convince the defendants that the police accident reconstruction was wrong when it placed fault on the plaintiff's uninsured driver. This was done by taking all of the witnesses' and police officers' depositions with a "rules of the road approach," scene investigation and testing.

02/05/2012	$ 1,000,000	Washtenaw County Circuit Court: Confidential (Premises) During church-sponsored hayride, which included participation of another church, 14-year old sitting on a bale of hay fell off the front of the trailer sustaining traumatic brain injury and fractured ribs, wrist and clavicle. Plaintiff said the ride was overloaded, there was a lack of raised rail on the front and rear of trailer, and the hayride lacked proper supervision and equipment. Sponsoring church's liability was clear; but, the invited church's liability was strongly challenged, claiming it neither owned nor had control over the premises where the accident occurred nor the vehicle used and further claimed it was only responsible for supervising its own members. Settlement was $1M present cash value with a future lifetime benefit of $2,570,199.
02/07/2012	$ 1,067,624	Duffy v Grange Insurance Co. of Michigan (Auto) In 2007, plaintiff was operating her ATV on the Little Manistee Route in Lake County. Riding over partially buried wood objects caused her to be ejected from the ATV, sustaining permanent spinal cord injuries. The ATV is qualified as a motor vehicle under the No-Fault Act, so plaintiff turned in a claim for PIP benefits, which was denied for the reason that the accident did not occur on a public highway as defined in the Motor Vehicle Code. Though the new Michigan Legislature amendment of 2008 excluded off-road vehicles from the definition of a motor vehicle, it was ruled in Macomb County Circuit Court that this statute applied retroactively back to the date of the accident. Arguments as to who maintained the roads were discussed. Wheelchair-bound for life, plaintiff was not receiving any no-fault benefits such as home modifications, etc. Plaintiff was awarded damages for allowable expenses such as medical, mileage and family-provided attendant care, home modifications and modified van, as well as $20 per hour for future attendant care.

Plaintiff tried to veer right and avoid the truck, but struck the passenger front tire area of the pickup truck. Plaintiff was hospitalized and in rehabilitation facilities for 3 months due to fractures to the wrist, femur, ankle, ribs and pelvis, in addition to post-traumatic stress, disorder, and aggravation of a pre-existing condition including depression and urinary retention and frequency problems. Plaintiff suffered significant residuals including traumatic arthritis in his elbow and wrist, scarring on the left arm and bladder issues. It was determined that plaintiff's headlight was on and that he was traveling below the speed limit. Plaintiff did not have a motorcycle endorsement, had significant pre-existing medical problems, and made a good recovery from the crash injuries.

		The umbrella carrier argued there was no economic loss as the Soc. Sec. death benefits exceeded plaintiff's child support. Defendant only had $100,000 auto bodily injury policy, but the umbrella carrier (at $250,000-$2,000,000) did not need to pay anything until the full amount of the "gap" was paid. Ultimately, defendant driver and owner of the car entered into a payment agreement, paying $150,000 for the gap of insurance.

It required reconstructive surgery and there was residual scarring. Serious impairments of body functions required surgeries (wrist fracture, torn rotator cuff, and ligament damage to the left knee, necessitating OATS procedure using pins and screws) which affected 50-year-old plaintiff's ability to work as a nurse in a burn unit and also affected her normal activities of life. It was being stored at a Volkswagen dealership until defendant arrived to load and transport the vehicle. Although defendant was not authorized to drive the vehicle on a public street, he began to drive it to his trailer which he had parked two blocks from the dealership. Pulling out of the dealership's parking lot, he hit an uninsured motorcyclist who suffered a traumatic brain injury. Because the vehicle had been sold but not delivered, and under the Owner Liability Statute, the judge ruled that VW Credit was the owner notwithstanding the fact that the vehicle had been picked up by the buyer's agent.

He spent 3 weeks in intensive care at Beaumont Hospital followed by 7 months at two rehabilitation centers. Discharged to his home, he now needed a 24-hr. attendant. Proven he was too injured to stay home, he became a full-time resident of a brain-injury rehabilitation center. Defense contended plaintiff would probably have been required to move into a facility even if the accident had not occurred, as he had been disabled from his supermarket clerk job of 20 years due to depression, had made

Plaintiff sought compensatory damages after undergoing three years of ketamine injections into a chest port three times a week, multiple medications, physical and aqua therapy as tolerated, leg rigidity, and wheelchair confinement, two spinal stimulator implants, and a pain pump with snail venom, all with poor results. Plaintiff counsel argued that she had life-altering injuries, persistent never-ceasing

10/29/2012	$ 300,000	Confidential (Personal – Case of Interest, Soccer Injury) 14-year-old high school soccer player was kicked with excessive force in the leg by his opposing team player. It dislocated his knee, tore three of his four ligaments, and severed an artery. He escaped amputation of his lower leg by a matter of minutes. After four surgeries and months of rehabilitative physical therapy, he regained the use of his leg and returned to most of his pre-injury activities, except soccer. Yearly evaluations monitor the vascular integrity of the traumatized leg but, otherwise, there are no ongoing medical expenses. Plaintiff sued both the player who kicked him and the two referees. Defendant argued that he simply misjudged the play and had intended to kick the ball, not his leg. Plaintiff explained that the player was observed becoming more and more agitated and angry as the game progressed and that he had already punched another player. Plaintiff focused on the "Standards for Referees" guidebook and the MHSAA Standards.
11/15/2012	$ 2,550,000	Modzelewski-Shekoski, et al. v Allied Excavation Inc., et al. (Auto Fatality) While 83-year old bicyclist was attempting to cross intersection at 22 Mile Road and Van Dyke Ave., a truck driver turning right at a red signal, who alleged he did not see plaintiff who had just entered the crosswalk on a white walk signal, struck and killed plaintiff. "Loss of society" was argued. It was also implied that his general state of physical health, including his prior heart attacks and advanced coronary artery disease, would result in a very low trial verdict at case evaluation and at facilitation. His estate sued the truck driver for negligence and the parent trucking company for vicarious liability, under Michigan's owner's liability statute, because of the driver's negligence. In addition, the truck driver's personnel record indicated he had been cited for speeding and improper use of equipment. The attorney cited a statute that abolished joint and several liability, requiring a jury to allocate a "percentage of the total fault of all persons that contributed to the death or injury. . ." The driver was allocated fault at 50%; trucking company, 20%; and plaintiff's decedent, 30%.

Plaintiff has been unable to return work as restaurant manager in Hazel Park since the July 2008 incident. The argument was that the vehicle did not sustain enough damage to cause injury and that whatever damage did exist could not have been caused by this accident. Awards included both economic and non-economic damages.

Defendant driver stated he was looking at his radio for several seconds. While driving in excess of 73 mph he collided with the rear of plaintiff's decedent's vehicle which rolled over, coming to a rest on the exit ramp. Plaintiff's decedent suffered severe head injuries, never regaining consciousness, but was kept alive by life support systems for several hours. Plaintiff alleged the sailboat approached at a high rate of speed and she was unable to get out of the way in time. Just prior to the impact, she stuck her hand out to push her kayak away from the sailboat to prevent the boat from overtaking and submerging the kayak, but the boat struck plaintiff's wrist. Though initially diagnosed with a sprain/strain of her dominant wrist, she later developed complex regional pain syndrome, otherwise known as reflex sympathetic dystrophy. Plaintiff was unable to remain at her job as a CT technician as a result of the injury. Her future wage loss alone exceeded defendants' policy limits.

She claimed permanent nerve injuries to her forearm and ongoing emotional difficulties as a result of the incident. She had residual scarring on her left forearm, left shoulder and left wrist, as well as numbness on forearm. She claimed post-traumatic stress disorder which required therapy and counseling. 12/09/2011	$ 1,110,000	John Doe and Jane Doe v Roadrunner Transportation Systems, Inc., Specialized Service Transportation and Felicia Lucas (Auto) Permanent and disabling injuries were sustained after 44-year old plaintiff's pickup truck collided with the back, right corner of a tractor-trailer attempting to back out of a parking lot onto the road. The tractor-trailer had no flashers, brake lights or visible turn signals. Backing up guidelines required the use of a spotter, which defendant failed to use, as well as ignoring safety and common sense. Defendants argued that this was a low-speed, minor sideswipe accident caused by plaintiff failing to pay attention to the roadway. They also argued that it was acceptable to back into the roadway without being able to see whether traffic was coming and that motorists have to accommodate tractor-trailers, regardless of who has the right-of-way. Defendants also disputed that plaintiff's herniations were caused by this minor accident, as it appeared at the scene that he was not injured and that head injury complaints were pre-existing. Plaintiff underwent two neck surgeries for disc herniations and required treatment for a brain injury. Attempting to return to work, he was unable to perform the tasks of his job and was permanently disabled.

About midnight during a snowstorm, 19-year-old plaintiff, girlfriend, and their 2-year-old son were driving a truck down a two-lane rural roadway when they collided with a semi-trailer and tractor which defendant was backing up across the roadway into her front yard so that the truck nose would be facing out, ready for the next day's run. It was defendant's first day of employment. Plaintiff swerved so that he took the brunt of the impact, sparing his girlfriend and son who were in the front passenger seat. They escaped serious injury; however, plaintiff, 10 months after the collision, is in a full-care nursing facility and in a minimally conscious state, just upgraded from persistent vegetative state. He is a quadriplegic and can follow commands by giving thumbs up/down.

03/27/2009	$ 700,000	Confidential (Personal; Auto; Premises/Operations) The 30-year-old plaintiff was at a friend's home on a Sunday afternoon to watch football games. At one point, the defendant brought out a Honda all-terrain vehicle and drove it around the driveway. The plaintiff asked if he could ride it, and the defendant acquiesced. Both the plaintiff and defendant had consumed five to six beers before this point. This was the plaintiff's first time riding an ATV, and when he asked for a helmet, he was told there was not one available. Further, very little instruction was given to the plaintiff on how to ride the ATV, nor was he told where he could and should ride. The defendant owns a large piece of property that housed several horses within a large wire fence surrounding the back of the property. Within seconds of the plaintiff getting on the ATV and riding it, he ran into a nearly invisible wire fence. His throat was cut open, and he suffered a complete transection of the trachea. The plaintiff was rushed to the hospital, where he had a tracheostomy surgery. He has a permanent scar across his neck, and still has a tracheostomy hole and breathing apparatus.

Later, the AIP got behind the wheel of his SUV with the plaintiff's decedent as his passenger in the back seat. The AIP subsequently crashed his vehicle into the rear end of a street sweeper and was killed, while the plaintiff's decedent suffered a fracture at C2-C3, was rendered a quadriplegic, and died 30 days later in the hospital. 10/02/2009	$ 1,800,000	Confidential (Auto) In a confidential lawsuit, the plaintiff asserted entitlement to damages following a motorcycle-car collision. The plaintiff, on his way to work via motorcycle, was seriously injured when a box truck turned in front of the motorcycle. Plaintiff dropped his bike in an attempt to avoid the collision. Plaintiff suffered a complex right arm fracture and a brain injury. Several surgeries followed, and plaintiff eventually returned to work as a sheet metal model maker, but co-workers noticed he could not perform his work the same as prior to the accident. He was fired after a month back on the job. As a result of plaintiff's struggles at work, his traumatic brain injury was more closely studied and the full effect of it was documented. Plaintiff also underwent cervical fusion and lumbar laminectomy. The plaintiff provided doctor reports, economic and vocation expert testimony, and a day-in-the-life video chronicle to present full value of the claim. The defendant contended plaintiff, who was 56 years old, was let go from his job because of mass downsizing in the industry, and had limited excess wage loss because of his age. Further, it was asserted, the plaintiff would return eventually to some type of employment. The case settled at facilitation for $1.8M.
10/07/2009	$ 2,000,000	Case Name Kept Confidential (Auto) The defendant driver, traveling 45-55 mph on a main road, entered the intersection, where he ran a red light. He hit the plaintiff's car, killing the decedent.
10/07/2009	$ 1,200,000	George Dunlap v Wisconsin Central (Auto) Plaintiff, a 51-year-old temporary relief conductor for the railroad, was working in July 2004. The train, traveling only 1-2 mph, carrying logs as it traveled over a crossing, collided with a passing motorist who failed to yield the right-of-way to the train. As a result of the impact, plaintiff sustained a crushed leg which was had to be amputated below the knee. Plaintiff settled with the motorist, but then pursued FELA (Federal Employers Liability Act) claims against defendant railroad, claiming unsafe working conditions such as failing to sound a whistle or otherwise alert the motorist of the train's presence. Plaintiff's disabling injury prevented him from returning to work for the railroad due to difficulty walking on uneven pavement or in adverse weather conditions. The $4,800,000 verdict was reduced by 75% due to comparative negligence.

10/19/2009	$ 1,500,000	Richard Troia v Duane Spencer and Zachary Bahr; Richard Troia v Duane Spencer and Zachary Bahr (Auto) Plaintiff's vehicle was struck head-on by a vehicle that crossed the center line of traffic to pass a turning vehicle. The cars collided at a combined speed of approx. 100 mph, each car traveling 40-50 mph. Plaintiff's 56-year-old wife was the decedent passenger who died as a result of a ruptured aorta. Plaintiff sustained a severe ankle fracture and a minor closed head injury as well as psychological problems arising from the accident.
10/19/2009	$ 1,490,000	Voss v Estate of Peter Kramer, et al. (Auto) In a third-party auto tort lawsuit filed in Calhoun County Circuit Court, plaintiff Guy Voss sought compensatory damages from defendant's Estate of Peter Kramer and Wachovia Capital Finance Corp. following a low-speed, rear-end collision. The accident caused very minimal vehicle damage to Voss' vehicle and virtually no discernable damage to the front of defendant's car. Because of the minor nature of the impact, Voss did not immediately believe to have been seriously hurt. He did not seek medical care until the following afternoon, when he went to the emergency room with complaints of neck pain and stiffness.
10/23/2009	$ 3,400,000	Michael Pawlik v Star Transport and Henry Trimble (Auto Fatality) Plaintiff and decedent spouse passenger were stopped in a construction zone when they were rear-ended by a tractor-trailer. Decedent sustained massive head injuries and died the following day. Defendant admitted that he knew his brakes were not functioning properly, reported the problem to the safety manager who told him to keep driving. Plaintiff physician participated in resuscitation attempts for his spouse following the accident and later claimed he suffered individual emotional distress.
10/28/2009	$ 2,261,486	Brzezinski, et al., v Ross Enterprises, Inc., et al. (Auto) On March 20, 2006, at 2:30 p.m., defendant Ronnie S. Jackson visited the Pantheon Club, a topless bar in Dearborn. He consumed several beers and a handful of test-tube shots and, at 5:52 p.m., passed out at a table in a pool of his own vomit. The club's manager summoned the disc jockey to clean up the vomit and call a cab. However, after leaving Jackson passed out at a table for 50 minutes, the disc jockey and the 19-year-old valet roused Jackson from his stupor and escorted him to the front door, where the valet pulled his car up. The disc jockey placed Mr. Jackson's coat and shoes, which he had left in the bar, in the front seat. Jackson left the bar at 6:50 p.m., drove 3 miles down Michigan Avenue at speeds estimated in excess of 80 miles per hour, and caused a nine-car pileup before rear-ending plaintiff's decedent Kenneth Brzezinski's 2005 Ford Escape at the intersection of Michigan Avenue and Oakwood Boulevard. The rear bumper of the Escape was crushed all the way to the level of the front seat, killing Brzezinski, 52, instantly. The plaintiff, filing dram shop and negligence claims, pointed to surveillance cameras in the bar that captured Jackson's drinking and the subsequent actions of the disc jockey and valet after Jackson had passed out at a table. The video called into question the defendant's claim that a cab actually had been called.
11/20/2009	$ 2,125,000	Lewis v State Barricades (Auto) On August 9, 2008, Ashley Lewis, 15, was traveling in the passenger seat of her mother's vehicle on Masonic Rd., in St. Clair Shores. Traffic was slow because of construction. Immediately to their right, on the side of the road was a temporary traffic control sign warning of a detour ahead. As a thundercloud passed through the area, a gust of wind of approximately 38 mph blew the sign up and into the air, propelling the steel leg of the sign through the windshield of the car, striking Lewis in the head. It caused a skull fracture and serious traumatic brain injury, and required traumatic optic neuropathy.
12/07/2009	$ 1,359,085	Northcross v USAA (Auto) Plaintiff was riding a bike when struck by a hit-and-run driver and suffered brain injury.

12/15/2009	$ 3,000,000	Case Name Kept Confidential (Auto) The collision took place in June 2007, when the decedent's motorcycle and defendant's car were involved in a head-on collision. The motorcycle operator died in the collision, and his passenger suffered orthopedic injuries. Plaintiffs asserted that the defendant's vehicle was in the plaintiff's lane at the moment of impact.
12/23/2009	$ 1,150,000	Hussain Al-Shemary v Martin Block Corp., et al. (Auto) On Aug. 18, 2006, plaintiff Hussain Al-Shemary drove a tractor-trailer on M-52 near Interstate 96 in Ingham County. A truck with a crane arm on a V-notch atop the cab was approaching from the opposite direction. As Al-Shemary passed the truck, the arm came out of the notch and struck Al-Shemary through his truck cab.

01/2008	$21,000,000	Higdon v Arby Construction, et al. (Premises/Operations) The children of a Bloomfield Hills couple died in a propane explosion while vacationing at a Wisconsin resort two summers ago. The parents received $21,000,000 as a result of a settlement. The children died when the cabin they were sleeping in exploded. Authorities said that they believed construction crews working near the resort ruptured an underground propane line sometime before the explosion.
01/07/2008	$ 3,225,000	Estate of Mira Abay v Kelly Rose Brooks and Alvin Jerome Taylor (Auto Fatality) Plaintiff's decedent, a 52-year-old single female nurse, was driving in the left traffic lane of the "mixing bowl," where Northwestern Hwy, I-696, and Telegraph Roads converge. She noticed defendant's car was approaching quickly behind her, so she moved to the right lane. At the same time, intoxicated defendant (also with evidence of cocaine and Darvocet in her system) moved to the right lane because plaintiff was blocking her way. In an effort to pass her, defendant moved back into the left lane, but her vehicle clipped the rear bumper of her vehicle, causing her vehicle to spin 90° into the other lanes, hitting the guardrail, flying into the air, striking a tree, and overturning. She was pronounced dead at the scene with a fractured neck and other catastrophic injuries.
04/07/2008	$ 1,600,000	Weller v J.T. Express (Auto) The plaintiff, a truck driver, was rear-ended by another semi-trailer at the intersection of Van Dyke and Ebeling in Romeo. He was treated for neck and back complaints in the E.R. and took physical therapy. Seven weeks later, he noticed weakness and numbness in his left arm and left leg. A discectomy with fusion was performed after a disc was found to be compressing the spinal cord. His left-sided weakness never diminished, and symptoms of the weakness were stroke-like. He had suffered a stroke six years before the accident, but he recovered completely. Through case facilitation, a $1.6M settlement was reached.
05/21/2008	$ 2,000,000	Linda Kalabat v Kenneth E. Harthen and Alta Lift Truck Services (Auto) As plaintiff was driving back to work after a break, her car was struck head-on by a vehicle driven by defendant, an employee of defendant Alta Lift Truck Services. While in the course of his employment at the time of the accident, he suffered a blackout as a result of his diabetic condition. He had not eaten because he was rushed while returning to work to write up an order. Plaintiff sustained a closed head injury similar to shaken baby syndrome which caused deterioration of her condition over the following year, requiring 24-hour attendant care with no hope of recovery. She also sustained back, shoulder and wrist injuries. She was a 35-year-old married female employed as an inspector for a manufacturing company. She had 4- and 11-year old children.
06/2008	$ 2,096,000	Doe v Doe (Auto) 53-year old farmer killed while driving a tractor on roadway when struck by a tractor trailer.

06/04/2008	$ 2,500,000	Not disclosed (Premises/Operations) While walking on a large construction site plaintiff, a 29-year-old painter working for a painting sub-contractor, was struck on his hard hat by a falling piece of a 3 ½-pound steel angle clip used to support masonry walls. The angle clip was improperly installed and fell from the roof decking nearly 24 feet above the floor. Plaintiff suffered injuries to his cervical and thoracic spine and ultimately underwent cervical fusion at three levels with placement of plates and cages.
08/13/2008	$ 5,650,000	Broeren v Bates (Auto) The defendant-driver was operating his personal vehicle under a long-term lease from his corporate employer. While returning from a week of deer hunting, the driver stepped on the accelerator instead of the brake while backing up, slamming the plaintiff head-first into the cabin, and then dragging him when the truck was put into drive. The jury awarded $2.75 million for pain and suffering, $1.88 million for economic damages and $1.02 million for loss of consortium to the plaintiff's wife who quit her job to care for her husband.
09/25/2008	$ 8,600,000	Nunez v Utica Transit Mix & Supply Co. (Auto Fatality) In a wrongful death lawsuit in Wayne County Circuit Court, a settlement resulted against the driver and a Utica construction supply company. Patrick Nunez was traveling in the fast lane on 1-75 in Detroit when a fully loaded, 150,000-pound gravel truck driven by Charles Dreyer blew a front tire and collided with Nunez' car. The car smashed into the retainer wall and burst into flames. Nunez was killed. Since a tire blowout is considered a common and foreseeable event, trucks are not supposed to dangerously lose control when that happens. The lawsuit showed that Dreyer's truck was in defective, out-of-service mechanical condition. Dreyer said in a deposition that he had received no formal training or supervision and had failed to inspect the truck's tires and brakes. Dreyer also was on epilepsy medicine for a seizure disorder, and the medication causes drowsiness and delayed reaction time. Due to the truck driver's negligence, the case settled for $3.9 million on a $4M policy limit, with an $8.6M total structured payout.
10/05/2008	$ 1,350,000	Confidential (Auto / Motorcycle / 2 Fatalities) 80-year-old defendant failed to stop for a stop sign at a cross street, while entering a two-lane highway intersection directly in front of a motorcycle driven by a 20-year-old college student. Both drivers were killed as a result of blunt-force injuries at the collision site. Though the plaintiff's decedent had the right of way, the defendants argued that the motorcyclist was speeding and, therefore, comparatively at fault. However, three eyewitnesses to the crash testified that the motorcyclist was not speeding and could not have avoided the crash. Michigan State Police accident reconstructionists confirmed that the cycle was not speeding and that there was not sufficient time or distance for the motorcyclist to take evasive action in response to the car pulling out in front of him.
10/21/2008	$ 4,500,000	Norita Sullivan v Christopher Alan Bohm, Jr., John Doe, and Kalik Doyle (Premises/Operations / Management Practices / Liquor Liability) A Wayne County Circuit Court jury returned a wrongful death award of more than $4M last Oct. 21st for the estate of 26-year-old John Spolsky. The U.S. Air Force Academy graduate was killed in a one-car crash and evidence at the trial showed the intoxicated driver, Spolsky's friend Christopher Bohn, had at least 10 alcoholic drinks at a Plymouth bar. The bar claimed no liability under the non-innocent party doctrine, claiming Spolsky had paid the bar tab. The jury was not convinced and awarded the plaintiff's estate $4.5 million, assessing the bar 95 percent responsibility under the Michigan Dram Shop Act. The act makes a business that sells alcoholic drinks or a host who serves liquor to a drinker who is intoxicated liable for damages to anyone injured by the drunken patron or guest. The case was settled confidentially while on appeal.

11/01/2008	$ 1,200,000	Davis v Underhill (Auto/Motorcycle) In 2005, 47-year-old plaintiff was riding his motorcycle when defendant made a left turn in front of his oncoming motorcycle, resulting in a collision. The force of impact, at 45 mph, caused plaintiff to be thrown from his bike onto the hood of defendant's vehicle, shattering defendant's windshield. Plaintiff then landed on the concrete surface of the roadway more than 30' away from the point of impact. His helmet flew off his head. He suffered a closed head injury, multiple pelvic fractures which required surgery, and a ruptured bladder. His injuries disabled him from returning to work as a corrections officer.

09/25/2012	$50,000,000	Confidential (Homeowners Premises / Personal Liability / Chimp Attack in Connecticut) In February 2009, plaintiff went to her friend's home to help lure her friend's 200-pound chimpanzee, Travis, back into her home. But, the animal went berserk outside the home and ripped off plaintiff's nose, lips, eyelids and hands before being shot to death by a police officer. She also became permanently blind from an infection spread by the chimp. Her body rejected transplants on her hands; however, in 2011, the US military funded a facial transplant in order to learn more about how it could help wounded veterans, and she has been subject to medical tests ever since. Travis had starred in many TV commercials for Old Navy, Coca-Cola, and was on "The Maury Povich Show." He was the constant companion of its owner and was treated like a son. He could eat at the table, drink wine from a stemmed glass, and use the toilet and dress and bathe himself. Travis had previously bitten another woman's hand and tried to drag her into a car in 1996, bit a man's thumb two years later, and escaped from her home and roamed downtown Stamford for hours before being captured in 2003. In 2009, Travis tried to escape by taking the car keys and trying to use them on several cars. Its owner, who died in 2010, tried to lure him back into the house and gave him an iced tea laced with Xanax. Plaintiff was a former barrel racer and horse jumper. Plaintiff sued the owner for negligence and recklessness. The family is also trying to sue the state for $150M but is awaiting permission from the state claims commissioner. They also want to sue the state Department of Energy and Environmental Protection, because she believes the Department is responsible for not seizing the animal before the attack despite a state biologist's warning it was dangerous.
